Why a Vinyl Patio Cover

Outdoor patio covers provide extra living space, but cost significantly less than a full renovation. A well-designed patio cover from Home Team Yards provides a connection to the outdoors, a comfortable, peaceful, fun place to relax after a long day, and a special place to celebrate those memorable family celebrations. When choosing a patio cover for your yard, some things to consider are; ease of maintenance, cost, and construction.

One of the most important considerations for a new patio is whether or not it will have a patio cover. A covered patio is more functional, offering refuge from the hot California sun. Home Team Yards offers three types of patio covers. The Cardiff model is designed with square pickets that fasten on top of the structure, which give approximately 40 percent shade. The Palomar with its push thru picket design can't be beat for strength and ease of installation. Another great Palomar feature is the choice of multiple shade options, including square pickets, diamond pickets and flat louver-style pickets, which give approximately 60 percent shade. Our sleek Arcadia patio cover offers a solid insulated aluminum cover for maximum shade.

Vinyl is the Best Option

High-quality vinyl is chosen by landscapers, contractors and homeowners for a number of reasons, most of all, because it is a beautiful solution that requires little or no maintenance. A quick spray with the water hose will keep it looking like the day it was installed. You'll never need to paint, sand, or seal it. Our high-quality vinyl patio cover kits carry a lifetime material warranty.

Cost

The initial cost of wood or vinyl is similar, but in the long run, vinyl is less expensive. Wood requires maintenance on a regular basis, and even with maintenance, a wood patio cover is only expected to last between 15 and 20 years before needing to be replaced. Vinyl is made to last a lifetime and will continue to look beautiful through the years. Once you've invested in a vinyl patio cover, you won't need to replace it due to age or deterioration for decades.

Environmental Impact

Vinyl, short for polyvinyl chloride (PVC), has been researched and tested numerous times through the last few decades and has been determined to be highly durable, energy efficient, and carry a high thermal-insulating value. Also, the manufacturing process for vinyl is a relatively low contributor to greenhouse gases. It takes less energy—therefore, fewer resources—to produce it. Vinyl is thermoplastic, so it can be recycled, reheated, and used again, with more than 1 billion pounds of vinyl being recycled each year in the US and Canada. Home Team Yards actively recycles our vinyl waste to minimize our impact on the environment.

Our Cardiff style is designed with square pickets that are fastened on top of the structure. You can add base trim and post trim to dress up your patio cover.
